Racial Tension, Cultural Marxism, and the Chaos Agenda

www.infohubblogger.wordpress.com

Introduction:

In this post I’m going to cover some issues which I believe to be of relevance regarding the heating up of racial tensions sparked by the death of George Floyd, the black man who died after being knelt on by a white police officer in Minniapolis sparking Black Lives Matter and Antifa protests across the US and also in various cities around the world. This post will probably seem like somewhat of a mishmash of topics but hopefully a bigger picture will emerge by the end.

What Happened To Coronavirus?:

Regarding all of this current racial mayhem there is the obvious question: what the hell happened to coronavirus? Up until the protesting and rioting began anyone engaged in mass gatherings - such as protest against the lockdown or daytrippers crowding onto beaches to get some sun - have been demonised by the media as granny killers putting people’s lives at risk, and yet, when it comes to the racial protests the sneering and disapproving tone of media reporting seems to have vanished completely. This hypocrisy was excellently summed up by journalist Toby Young on his website lockdownsceptics.org where he wrote:

I cannot be alone in noticing the huge gulf between the sympathetic coverage given to the Black Lives Matter protests in the mainstream media and the almost universally hostile coverage of the anti-lockdown protests. Celebrities who were encouraging everyone to remain in their homes until last week are now rushing out to join the protests, including Emily Ratajkowski, Jaz Sinclair, Paris Jackson and Billie Eilish. Not only is this virtue-signalling hypocritical – why is Covid likely to be spread at anti-lockdown protests, but not at Black Lives Matter protests? – it’s also irresponsible, given how many of those protests have spiralled out of control into fully-fledged riots in at least 25 cities across America, including Minneapolis, Atlanta, Los Angeles, Louisville, Columbia, Denver, Portland, Milwaukee and Columbus.

Those protests have now crossed the Atlantic, with a march through the streets of Peckham yesterday in which demonstrators held up placards reading “Abolish the Police” and “Riot is the language of the unheard”. That demo did not become violent or lead to rioting, but more protests are planned in London and other British cities over the coming days.

Today, Metro ran an article entitled: “Black Lives Matter: Are protests taking place in the UK and how can you donate?” It included a handy guide to people who want to join those protests, something I don’t recall Metro doing a couple of weeks ago when it wrote about the anti-lockdown protests across the country.

I’m all in favour of the right to protest. I think the suspension of that right is unlawful and it should be reinstated immediately. But the police need to make up their minds. Either it’s now permissible for groups of more than 100 people to stage a protest, or it isn’t.

*It can’t be one rule for Black Lives Matter protestors and another for anti-lockdown protestors.

Recently health experts from the University of Washington penned an open letter declaring “white supremacy” to be a more pressing health concern for black people than Covid-19 and lending support to the protests. The letter was signed by 1200 health experts. NPR reports:

But the risks of congregating during a global pandemic shouldn't keep people from protesting racism, according to dozens of public health and disease experts who signed an open letter in support of the protests.

"White supremacy is a lethal public health issue that predates and contributes to COVID-19," the letter said.

Initially written by infectious disease experts at the University of Washington, the letter cited a number of systemic problems, from the disproportionately high rate at which black people have been killed by police in the U.S. to disparities in life expectancy and other vital categories — including black Americans' higher death rate from the coronavirus.

Paul Joseph Watson of Summit News writes in his article 1200 Public Health Experts Sign Letter Advocating Mass Gatherings Because “White Supremacy” is a Bigger Threat Than COVID-19:

1200 public health experts have signed an open letter asserting that Black Lives Matter mass gatherings should be encouraged because “white supremacy” is a bigger health threat than COVID-19.

Yes, really.

“White supremacy is a lethal public health issue that predates and contributes to COVID-19,” states the letter, before adding, “Black people are twice as likely to be killed by police compared to white people, but the effects of racism are far more pervasive,” (a claim which is completely misleading given that black people are far likelier to be involved in violent confrontations with police).

The letter goes on to basically assert that COVID-19 isn’t a threat, so long as people are protesting against racism, which is a bigger threat, a completely ludicrous assertion that sounds like it came straight from a far-left protest group, not 1200 public health experts.

He goes on to highlight a tweet which sums up the situation:

Commenting on the letter, journalist Michael Tracey tweeted, “The letter was drafted by infectious disease “experts” at the University of Washington, which has been integral in studying the coronavirus in the US. They write that “pervasive racism” is now “the paramount public health problem,” superseding the virus. WHAT THE FUCK!!!!!!”

Watson goes on to state:

No, this isn’t an episode of the Twilight Zone, it’s 2020.

See Watson’s video below:

https://youtu.be/9zWQsRmANiA

https://www.bitchute.com/video/9zWQsRmANiA/

Of course, there is a reason for the double standard regarding the way racial protests are treated compared to other mass gatherings and it’s because racial tensions are all part of the Global Elite’s destabilisation plans. What we are seeing right now is exactly what Cultural Marxism was created for. The traditional foundations of Western society are to be overturned as part of the elite’s chaos and divide and conquer strategy which is designed to help them advance their New World Order goals.

The Frankfurt School and Critical Theory:

A key part of the agenda is the use of Cultural Marxism to erode the traditional social, cultural and religious structures of the West. This is also known as Critical Theory. Whilst Critical Theory is a complex idea it ultimately boils down to the notion of criticising something to the point of collapse, in this case traditional Western Society. This strategy was put into practice in the United States by a clique of Jewish Marxist intellectuals connected to the Institute Of Social Research in Frankfurt, Germany (often referred to as The Frankfurt School). These “intellectuals” fled Germany when Hitler and the Nazis came to power and many found themselves in the US with Columbia University becoming a major hub of Frankfurt School activity. The Frankfurters understood that economic Marxism wasn’t sufficient to bring about revolution in the West and developed Critical Theory as an alternative strategy for weakening and dividing Western nations to make them ripe for socialist takeover. In his book, BBC Brainwashing Britain?: How and why the BBC controls your mind, author and lecturer David Sedgwick explains:

Marx’s economic theory, predicated upon a system of exploitation wherein the weak (workers) were ruthlessly exploited by the strong (bosses) was falling apart. There had to be oppression going on somewhere! Without victims and exploitation there could be no revolution. Marxists needed to convince people – any people – that they were being ruthlessly exploited, and that the solution lay in revolution. [p17]

He goes on to write:

Frankfurters turned their attention from economics to culture. They soon found their reason: the working classes had been tricked into believing the world they lived in and experienced was not only ‘normal’ and ‘real’ but the only sort of world possible. These credulous souls suffered from what the Marxist’s came to coin as ‘false consciousness’ - they uncritically accepted what they read in the media, heard at church and were taught at school etc. In other words, they were victims of their culture. They just didn’t know it. It all made perfect sense, at least to progressive minds. [p17]

Sedgwick goes on to discuss Critical Theory. I will quote this section of his book at length as it is a good summary and is of the utmost relevance at this current time of heightened racial tension and agitation. Sedgwick writes:

By 1934 Columbia University had become an informal headquarters. Once safely inside the evil capitalist empire they sought to bring down, the Frankfurt émigrés assumed jobs in education and government - any sphere which presented them with the influence they craved and required. With its ability to inculcate young, malleable minds, the US education system naturally became a prime target. In order to spread their ideology among young, impressionable minds, a conduit was required that could masquerade as an intellectual discipline while at the same time disseminating the Marxist’s ideology without fear of censure. In Critical Theory the dissidents found a devastating weapon.

Briefly, Critical Theory is a model of social and cultural analysis that is hostile to just about every tenet of western society: Christianity, capitalism, law and order, the family, morality, loyalty, patriotism, conservatism etc. It relentlessly attacks the foundations of the west i.e. The United States and Europe while studiously ignoring the rest of the world. For example, while insisting on Euro-American culpability re slavery, it ignores the very long and ignoble history of slavery both before and since the period c. 1600-1850. In order to facilitate this attack it attempts to stratify society into opposition groups: victims and perpetrators; oppressed and oppressors; abusers and abused etc.

Indeed, in its critique of western culture and society, Critical Theory has succeeded in creating a vast range of polarised categories all of which it attempts to place in violent opposition to one another: men v women; rich v poor; black v white; able-bodied v handicapped; heterosexual v homosexual; Christian v Muslim etc. The key is sensitisation: Critical Theory relies on making people hyper sensitive to questions of race, gender, religion, sexuality etc. The aim is to create a sense of difference, thereafter alienation.
When society can be fragmented into multifarious sub-groups, and from here persuaded all such groups are victims of a dominant culture, Marxists are halfway to achieving their nefarious aims. In Marxist terminology this strategy is known as divide and rule.

Only by first destabilising society (divide) can Marxists hope to take control (rule). Create a problem – capitalist western society – and then offer a solution (Marxism/Communism). The Frankfurt elitists and their heirs just needed to convince these disparate groups that any woes or grievances they had were solely due to the inherent structures of western society e.g. church, school, nuclear family etc. Furthermore, individuals could now be encouraged to devolve any sense of personal responsibility, to blame an oppressive society. The seeds of victimhood were being sown that would one day blossom into grievance culture and identity politics.

If sufficient dissatisfaction and despair could be created among the populace, if it could be convinced that the current system was rotten, the way would be paved for the Marxists and their special brand of totalitarianism to take over. Easier said than done. For who but the most naïve would fall for such trickery? Surely the majority of decent, hard-working people would soon shut this dogma down? Like any other ideology, Marxism is a political construct, and as such is rarely supported by the reality of everyday life.

Undoubtedly aware of the many shortcomings of their own ideology and in order to crush the dissent they knew must follow, the Marxists had another trick up their sleeves: political correctness. By carefully defining the limits of public discourse, by controlling exactly what ideas could or could not be articulated, Marxists could ensure the tenets of their fraudulent ideology would remain unchallenged. Opposition could now be shut down. ‘Political correctness has become an intolerant creed,’ so wrote Paul Dacre in The Guardian, ‘enabling a self-appointed elite to impose its minority values on the great majority.’ Terms such as ‘racist’ and ‘bigot’ proved immensely successful when it came to protecting cultural Marxism from any kind of scrutiny. The march towards hopelessness – power - could continue unmolested.
In his pamphlet ‘Rules for Radicals’ Saul Alinsky puts the case explicitly enough. Marxists must aim to demoralise because:

Any revolutionary change must be preceded by a passive, affirmative, non-challenging attitude toward change among the mass of our people. They must feel so frustrated, so defeated, so lost, so futureless in the prevailing system that they are willing to let go of the past and chance the future.

Political correctness and later its heir ‘hate speech’ were calculated to do just this: turn people into a ‘passive, affirmative, non-challenging’ mass. Later Alinsky notes that those wishing to herald in a new system – his system - must be prepared to ‘agitate, create disenchantment and discontent with the current values.’

Marxists stepped up their attack on ‘current values.’ Any individual or organisation advocating traditional values became the cultural Marxist’s deadliest enemy. Politicians and political parties supporting the concept of patriotism and nationhood, the nuclear family and a moral code based on the Christian church were not only to be opposed, but viciously attacked. The drive to alienate people from those institutions which perpetuated ‘false consciousness’ – family, church, school - any institution that held society together had begun in earnest.

With its enthusiasm for all things radical and anti-establishment, what better place to start than at the American (and later European) university campus, homes to an endless supply of naïve young minds only too willing to help create the poisonous atmosphere dreamed of by Alinsky and his Frankfurt allies.[p18]

What Sedgwick just described is what has come to be known in our modern era as “woke” culture and is at the root of most “progressive” thinking as well as the ideology that underpins groups such as Black Lives Matter and Antifa. It is a weaponized ideology designed to destabilise Western nations.
In his article, The Four Horsemen of The Frankfort School, Chuck Morse writes:

"The saturating drumbeat of Critical Theory would lead to "Cultural Pessimism" which is when a person grows to loathe the society, which nurtured him and provided him unprecedented levels of success. This describes the attitude of so many leftists living in comfort and safety yet viewing America, the society that made their lifestyle possible, with hatred and contempt. I am amazed by the degree in which both Critical Theory and Cultural Pessimism has been internalized by all of us."

The countercultural revolution of the 1960s played a major role in the erosion of traditional Western values. A key inspirational text of the time was the book Eros and Civilization (1955) written by Frankfurt School luminary Herbert Marcuse. Wikipedia explains:

"One of Marcuse's best known works, the book brought him international fame. Both Marcuse and many commentators have considered it his most important book, and it was seen by some as an improvement over the previous attempt to synthesize Marxist and psychoanalytic theory by the psychoanalyst Wilhelm Reich. Eros and Civilization helped shape the subcultures of the 1960s and influenced the gay liberation movement..."
Chuck Morse writes of Marcuse:

The forth horseman, Brandeis professor Herbert Marcuse, was the pied piper of the sixties as he fostered the development of, as Buchanan points out, "radical youth, feminists, black militants, homosexuals, the alienated, the asocial, Third World revolutionaries, all the angry voices of the persecuted ‘victims’ of the West." In "Eros and Civilization" Marcuse encouraged sex and drugs and introduced "polymorphous perversity" where all moral and cultural order is rejected. Marcuse coined the slogan "Make love not war" and was a cult figure on College campuses. His book "One Dimensional Man" advocates educational dictatorship. He calls for "Repressive Tolerance" which means "intolerance against movements from the right, and toleration of movements from the left." When the left speaks of tolerance, this is what they mean.

Another influential text by Frankfurt School operatives was The Authoritarian Personality (1950) which recommended an overhaul of traditional American society based on the premise that the nuclear family and conservative and Christian values was the root of fascism. Chuck Morse writes of lead author Theodore Adono:

Adorno's thesis is that anyone imbued with middle class, conservative, or Christian values is a racist and a fascist. Charles Sykes, senior fellow at the Wisconsin Policy Research Center, says Adorno's book is "an uncompromising indictment of bourgeois civilization, with the twist that what was considered merely old-fashioned by previous critics was now declared both fascist and psychologically warped."

Jeffrey Steinberg of Executive Intelligence Review in his piece From Cybernetics to Littleton: Techniques of Mind Control writes:

The study was an exercise in self-fulfilling prophecy and Marxist/Freudian self-delusion. Long before the first survey questionnaire was drafted, Horkheimer and Adorno had written exhaustively about the "authoritarian" character of the American nuclear family, about the "problem" of the American people's belief in a transcendent monotheistic God, and about the underlying fascist character of all forms of American patriotism. They "cooked" the survey data, in advance, by devising a series of scales, purporting to measure the American population's tendency toward anti-Semitism, ethnocentricity, anti-democratic ideology, and, ultimately, fascism. Not surprisingly, the research team found the American public "guilty as charged," and produced dire warnings that, unless a dramatic overhaul of the American ideology and mass culture were carried out, America would soon emerge as a Fourth Reich, repeating the horrors of Hitler on an even grander scale.

The impact of The Authoritarian Personality should not be downplayed. As Wikipedia explains:

Though strongly criticized for bias and methodology, the book was highly influential in American social sciences, particularly in the first decade after its publication: "No volume published since the war in the field of social psychology has had a greater impact on the direction of the actual empirical work being carried on in the universities today."[6]

The effects of the Cultural Marxist Frankfurt School are not to be underestimated and its ideology is all around us at the present time.

Marxism, Communism & The Illuminati:

To understand why the Frankfurt School and its Cultural Marxism creed has been allowed to become the dominant ideology in the West we have to understand a little bit about the origins of Marxism and Communism. This has to be the extremely short version as the full story could be the subject of a very lengthy book so I hope the reader will appreciate that I am really just going to be skipping over the basics.

Ultimately, Marxism and Communism have their roots in the Bavarian secret society known as The Illuminati which was founded on May 1st 1776. This is the real reason why May 1st is so important in the communist world. Its ideology was one of global revolution with the goal of achieving global dictatorship by an elite. The Illuminati would eventually infiltrate freemasonry which it has used ever since to work towards this end. Communist and socialist ideologies have served as important tools of this global conspiracy.
In his book, None Dare Call It Conspiracy, researcher, Gary Allen explains:

Karl Marx was hired by a mysterious group who called themselves the League of Just Men to write the Communist Manifesto as demagogic boob-bait to appeal to the mob. In actual fact the Communist Manifesto was in circulation for many years before Marx' name was widely enough recognized to establish his authorship for this revolutionary handbook. All Karl Marx really did was to update and codify the very same revolutionary plans and principles set down seventy years earlier by Adam Weishaupt, the founder of the Order of Illuminati in Bavaria. And, it is widely acknowledged by serious scholars of this subject that the League of Just Men was simply an extension of the Illuminati which was forced to go deep underground after it was exposed by a raid in 1786 conducted by the Bavarian authorities. [PDF] p20

In his book, The Occult And Subversive Movements, Dr. Kerry Bolton supports Allen's claims writing:

Marx’s Communist League and The Communist Manifesto did not emerge from a void. Communism was the culmination of several centuries of agitation, theorising and propaganda by secret societies. [p160]

After examining Marx and the general secret society milieu in which he was immersed, Bolton concludes:

While conspiracy theorists state that Marx was in the employ of the Illuminati through the League of the Just, which is referred to as an Illuminati front, this theory is usually conjectural. It is, however, justified, as the association of Marx with Illuminism can be established from reliable sources. [p163]

The Illuminati would pull off the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia using freemasons such as Vladimir Lenin and Leon Trotsky. Researcher Juri Lina writes in his book on Soviet Communism, Under The Sign Of The Scorpion:

Several sources reveal that Lenin became a freemason whilst abroad (in 1908). One of these sources is a thorough investigation: Nikolai Svitkov’s “About Freemasonry in Russian Exile”, published in Paris in 1932. According to Svitkov, the most important freemasons from Russia were Vladimir Ulyanov-Lenin, Leon Trotsky (Leiba Bronstein), Grigori Zinoviev (Gerson Radomyslsky), Leon Kamenev (Meyer Hennokh Wallakh), Yakov Sverdlov (Yankel-Aaron Solomon), L. Martov (Yuli Zenderbaum), and Maxim Gorky (Alexei Peshkov), among others. [PDF p94]

The Illuminati/Freemason agenda is run by the world’s banking elites, in particular the Rothschild dynasty. In terms of funding the overthrow of the Russian Czar a key figure was banker and close Rothschild associate, Jacob Schiff. In his book Truth Is A Lonely Warrior, researcher James Perloff writes:

The same cabal has funded nearly all revolutions – most prominently the Russian Revolution. Britain’s Lord Alfred Milner, a Rothschild financial agent, distributed 21 million roubles in Russia for the Bolshevik cause. Another major source was Kuhn, Loeb in New York, headed by Paul Warburg and Jacob Schiff. The New York Journal-American of Feb 3, 1949 reported:

Today it is estimated even by Jacob’s grandson, John Schiff, that the old man sank about $20,000,000 for the final triumph of Bolshevism in Russia. Other New York banking firms also contributed.

This $20 million – given in gold – was in addition to another $50 million which, according to contemporary U.S. and British intelligence reports, Kuhn, Loeb placed in the Bank of Sweden for the revolution’s leaders, Lenin and Trotsky. When the Czar abdicated in 1917, Trotsky was actually living in New York City. That March, he and fellow revolutionaries sailed for Russia with Schiff’s $20 million in gold, but the British Navy intercepted the ship. The British and Canadians detained Trotsky at Halifax, Nova Scotia, because they knew he intended to foment revolution in Czarist Russia – our ally in the raging First World War. The Bolsheviks had promised to pull Russia out of the war if the revolution succeeded. The British and Canadians realized what that meant: Germany would shift its troops from the Eastern to Western front, where they could kill more British, Canadians, and Americans. But at the bankers’ behest, President Wilson personally intervened, and requested that Canada release Trotsky. The President thus placed Bolshevism’s success above the lives of American soldiers. [EPUB p97]

The website, First World War Hidden History, in an article titled, The Rape Of Russia 7: Moving Towards The New World Order, explains:
Jacob Schiff, the Warburgs, the Rothschilds and other predominantly Jewish international bankers, undoubtedly harboured considerable hatred for the Czarist regime in Russia because of the persecution of their co-religionists, and justifiably so, but their reasons for bringing about the Bolshevik Revolution ran much deeper than religious persuasion. This was not about love for the Bolsheviks, nor concern for the victims of Czarism or the ordinary downtrodden Russian Jews. This was about business and future plans for control of the world.

One member of the Warburg banking family, James Paul Warburg, once stated the following before a US Senate Committee on Foreign Relations:

“We shall have world government, whether or not we like it. The question is only whether world government will be achieved by consent or by conquest.”

Jacob Schiff and the NAACP:

Now we get to something which is key to what is currently taking place regarding the rise of racial tensions, not just in the US but also seemingly spreading around the Western world. Whilst many familiar with the subject of The Illuminati may already be aware of Jacob Schiff’s connection to the Russian Revolution, perhaps less are aware of his pivotal role in creating the black civil rights organisation known as the NAACP (the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People). Wikipedia explains:

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) is a civil rights organization in the United States, formed in 1909 as a bi-racial endeavor to advance justice for African Americans by a group including W. E. B. Du Bois, Mary White Ovington, Moorfield Storey and Ida B. Wells.

Its mission in the 21st century is "to ensure the political, educational, social, and economic equality of rights of all persons and to eliminate race-based discrimination". National NAACP initiatives include political lobbying, publicity efforts and litigation strategies developed by its legal team. The group enlarged its mission in the late 20th century by considering issues such as police misconduct, the status of black foreign refugees and questions of economic development. Its name, retained in accordance with tradition, uses the once common term colored people, referring to those with some African Dr. Kerry Bolton writes of Jacob Schiff’s role in the founding of the NAACP in his book, Babel Inc: Multiculturalism, Globalisation and the New World Order. Bolton explains:

The first Negro organisation founded to promote racial integration in the United States was the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP), established in 1909. This has served as the prototype for other minority lobbies such as the Hispanic organisation MALDEF. The idea did not originate with a Black but with the leading Jewish banker of the time Jacob H. Schiff, senior partner in the Wall Street international bank, Kuhn, Loeb and Company. Schiff was to become one of the primary financial backers of the revolutionary movement in Russia to overthrow the Czar.

Schiff floated the idea of the NAACP at the Henry Street Settlement, a socialist project founded by wealthy Jews, that assisted poor Jewish immigrants in New York City. ‘The NAACP evolved from meetings at Henry Street, at one of which Schiff made a fervent speech on behalf of the guest of honor, W. E. B. Du Bois.’ Du Bois, a founder of the NAACP, has become an iconic figure in the United States as a Black sociologist. Du Bois was a long-time communist, although he did not join the Communist Party USA until 1961, at the age of 93. Interestingly, Du Bois had resigned from the NAACP in 1934 because he opposed the movement’s total opposition to segregation, whereas he saw the benefits of voluntary Black segregation as a means of ‘self-dependence.’ [p135]

So here we have one of the same elite bankers involved in fomenting revolution in Russia also playing a role in fomenting organised black activism in the United States. Racial agitation was always intended to play a role in the Banker/Illuminati agenda.

The Fake Fall of The Soviet Union:

Whilst many believe that the collapse of the USSR meant that the Communist threat to the West was consigned to the dustbin of history there is reason to doubt this. One high-level KGB Defector, Anatoly Golytsin, predicted the collapse of the Soviet Union and warned that it would be a deception with the aim of deceiving the West into a false sense of security. James Perloff explains in Truth Is A Lonely Warrior:

During the Cold War, Anatoly Golitsyn was the highest-ranking KGB officer to defect to the West. His revelations led to the arrest of over 200 Soviet spies. In 1984 he published an astonishing exposé, New Lies for Old, which predicted glasnost five years in advance.

In the KGB, Golitsyn had learned of a dramatic change in communist strategy. Experience had taught the Soviets that if they exhibited strength and unity, or made threats, the West responded by arming. But if they demonstrated weakness, infighting, and eagerness for peace, the West responded by disarming. The new strategy: display these attributes at unprecedented levels. This, they believed, would prompt the West to disarm to the point where the communists could achieve decisive superiority. Golitsyn defected to reveal this strategy.

Perloff goes on to quote from Golitsyn’s book and while I won’t repeat the rather lengthy quote here, in essence Golitsyn outlines the deceptive reforms that would take place in order to lure the West into a false sense of security by creating an apparent liberalization and democratization of the Soviet bloc. All of this would be for appearances only, according to Golitsyn, who wrote that if this plan “should be extended to East Germany, demolition of the Berlin Wall might even be contemplated” adding that “Western acceptance of the new “liberalization” as genuine would create favorable conditions for the fulfillment of communist strategy for the United States, Western Europe, and even, perhaps, Japan.” Golitsyn goes on to predict the rise of a Gorbachev-type character who would advance this scheme writing that the Soviet leader Yuri Andropov would likely be “replaced by a younger leader with a more liberal image who will continue the so-called “liberalization” more intensively.”

Perloff continues:

Before glasnost happened, who besides Golitsyn predicted Soviet liberalization, the rise of a Gorbachev-like leader, or the Berlin Wall’s fall? In his book, Golitsyn made 148 falsifiable predictions; by 1993, 139 had been fulfilled – a 94 percent accuracy rate. Although the U.S. media should have hailed Golitsyn as a political prophet, they ignored his book and assured us that Soviet reforms were spontaneous and genuine.

But Golitsyn said the changes would be spurious and calculated to deceive. In the end, the strategy calls for communism to resume its worst form. [EPUB p107]

Note: See this article and this video for more on Golytsin and his claims.

Dugin & Eurasianism:

Essentially Golitsyn was saying that the Soviet Union would adopt a new mask but that behind the scenes the control structure would remain the same, ultimately pursuing the same long-range goal, i.e. to subvert and ultimately take-down the West. The Russian aim at this point seems to be to pursue a Eurasian Empire. This strategy is largely based on the ideas of Russian geopolitical philosopher, Alexander Dugin, who laid out his ideas for a resurgence of Russian power in his 1997 book Foundations Of Geopolitics. Wikipedia explains the influence of Dugin’s ideas:

The Foundations of Geopolitics: The Geopolitical Future of Russia is a geopolitical book by Aleksandr Dugin. The book has had a large influence within the Russian military, police, and foreign policy elites and it has been used as a textbook in the Academy of the General Staff of the Russian military. Its publication in 1997 was well-received in Russia and powerful Russian political figures subsequently took an interest in Dugin, a Russian eurasianist, fascist and nationalist who has developed a close relationship with Russia’s Academy of the General Staff.

Whilst Dugin is often referred to as a “fascist” and not a communist it should be recognised that communism is not about “the workers” or creating a utopia for the people but is about power and dominance. Dugin laments the break-up of the Soviet Union and his theories outline a strategy for a resurgence of Russian power on the world stage. The term ”fascist” in the Duginist sense refers to Russian National Bolshevism and Russian geopolitical supremacy. Dugin should probably be viewed more as an ideas man than a component of the power structure.

The article, Aleksandr Dugin's Foundations of Geopolitics, by John P Dunlop explains of Dugin’s strategy:

It should be noted that Dugin does not focus primarily on military means as a way of achieving Russian dominance over Eurasia; rather, he advocates a fairly sophisticated program of subversion, destabilization, and disinformation spearheaded by the Russian special services, supported by a tough, hard-headed use of Russia's gas, oil, and natural resource riches to pressure and bully other countries into bending to Russia's will. Dugin apparently does not fear war in the least, but he would prefer to achieve his geopolitical goals without resorting to it.

Dugin advocates the weakening of the West, what he refers to as the ‘Atlanticist Powers’. The article explains:

*How is a revived Eurasian--Russian empire to bring about "the geopolitical defeat of the U.S." (260)? An appropriate response to the looming Atlanticist threat, Dugin contends, is for the renascent Eurasian-Russian empire to direct all of its powers (short of igniting a hot war), as well as those of the remainder of humanity, against the Atlanticist Anaconda. "At the basis of the geopolitical construction of this [Eurasian] Empire," Dugin writes, "there must be placed one fundamental principle--the principle of 'a common enemy.'"

One strategy for weakening and destabilising the US, according to Dugin, is the fomenting of all kinds of extremism, in particular the stoking of racial tension. Dunlop continues his piece quoting Dugin’s words:

Within the United States itself, there is a need for the Russian special services and their allies "to provoke all forms of instability and separatism within the borders of the United States (it is possible to make use of the political forces of Afro-American racists)" (248). "It is especially important," Dugin adds, "to introduce geopolitical disorder into internal American activity, encouraging all kinds of separatism and ethnic, social and racial conflicts, actively supporting all dissident movements-- extremist, racist, and sectarian groups, thus destabilizing internal political processes in the U.S. It would also make sense simultaneously to support isolationist tendencies in American politics" (367).
Many in alternative media don’t like to discuss Russia’s subversive role in the West. They tend to portray the elite and their New World Order agenda as purely a “Western Elite” pursuing a “Western Agenda.” They present Putin and Russia as the opposition to the New World Order and any claims of Russian malfeasance anywhere in the world are dismissed as “fake news” by the Putin worshippers of the “Russia dindu nuffin” crowd. It is my contention that the elite behind the New World Order agenda are not a “Western Elite” but a Global Elite which has been in control of Russia ever since the Bolshevik Revolution in 1917. The elites are still playing regions against each other as part of the great geopolitical divide and rule game.

Whilst we can’t place the blame for the rising racial tension in the West solely on Russia, it does need to be understood that the inflaming of racial division is part of Russia’s geopolitical strategy which, just like the Cultural Marxist ideology seeded by the Marxists of the Frankfurt School, aims to weaken and destabilise Western society. Therefore we can’t rule out Russian intelligence activity at work regarding groups like Black Lives Matter, Antifa and even far-right organisations. The Duginist/Russian strategy is to back all sides for maximum chaos.

Note: For a decent video series looking at the subversive role of Russia and Duginist strategy see Will Vladimir Putin Save The World? (Part 1, Part 2 and Part 3).

Signs of Orchestration:

Since the protests and rioting began as a result of the death of George Floyd it has been noted that pallets of bricks were appearing on the streets as if someone wanted to increase the level of violence and destruction. The Sun reported:

PALLETS of bricks have appeared, seemingly at random, during George Floyd protests across the US - sparking theories they were planted by cops or extremists to fuel violence.

Demonstrators who took to the streets to protest police brutality used against Floyd reported finding unattended piles of bricks in areas of planned protest with no apparent use for construction.
The article highlights a tweet put out by Kansas City Police which stated:

We have learned of & discovered stashes of bricks and rocks in & around the Plaza and Westport to be used during a riot. If you see anything like this, you can text 911 and let us know so we can remove them. This keeps everyone safe and allows your voice to continue to be heard.

The article goes on to explain:

Similar reports emerged from across the country with protesters posting videos from New York City, Dallas and North Carolina all appearing to show piles of unattended bricks.

One masked man who turned up to a Dallas protest can be seen in video footage pointing to a pile of bricks behind him while telling the camera "This right here ... this is a set up".

Another man can be heard replying in the background: "They put them there on purpose, bro!"

Separate footage emerged from a protest in Manhattan where a dozen protesters are seen coming across a large cache of bricks in the middle of a city street.

"Yo, we got bricks. We got bricks!" a woman can be heard telling other demonstrators.

Another video from a protest in Fayetteville, NC, showed a pile of unattended bricks on a street corner.

"There's some random a bricks, bro," a man filming the scene can be heard saying.

*He adds: "Ain't no construction here ... just some random bricks sitting here."

Some claim a connection to a company called AcmeBrick whose parent company, Berkshire Hathaway, had - until recently - Bill Gates as a board member. See video below:

https://youtu.be/J8hFnTGF2ZI
One black conservative commentator, Stacy Washington, stated during a TV news interview:

“So, in areas where there are no construction areas going on – so no signs of other construction – you see pallets of bricks. Sometimes there’s plastic containers of bricks.

They’re marked as delivered to public works. But the people who are delivering them – down south they’re being delivered by Acme Brick...

So this is just logic saying if protests erupt, and within 48 hours of protests erupting, all of a sudden pallets of bricks are showing up. And Antifa members dressed all in black are hurling the bricks through glass structures and damaging public property and private businesses. Then we know this is part of a coordinated effort.”

https://youtu.be/OAYk0Y7JP8c

While we can’t say for sure who is behind the appearance of the bricks it is probably safe to assume that it is someone who wants to see an eruption of violence.

https://youtu.be/prqqvQXYHAs

Another strange aspect of the riots is the large number of Police Cruisers that appear to be left unattended in order for rioters to burn and destroy. This is pointed out by Russ Winter of winterwatch.net in this piece, Widespread Destruction of Police Cruisers Appears Orchestrated. In the article he writes:

Where it gets especially sketchy is the widespread wrecking of police cruisers. Day after day, we see lines of unattended taxpayer-funded police cruisers and SUVs being completely destroyed in cities across the nation. Is a modern day George Custer in command of these police units?

Why are we seeing a trend of police cruisers being abandoned in the path of angry mobs? Burning and flipping police cars is a common scene in riots, so why do police continue to bring their squad cars to riots and then leave them unattended and in plain sight? Almost every city had abandoned police cars torched.
He goes on to cite numerous examples but I’ll just highlight one below. See Winter’s article for more.

https://youtu.be/kYgBWNIPfuQ

Another issue we need to consider when it comes to orchestrated chaos is the issue of paid protesters and rent-a-mobs. Many don't realise that protesting has become an industry. One website called demandprotest.com boasts the ability to supply mass protesters on demand. The website states:

We are strategists mobilizing millennials across the globe with seeded audiences and desirable messages. With absolute discretion a top priority, our operatives create convincing scenes that become the building blocks of massive movements. When you need the appearance of outrage, we are able to deliver it at scale while keeping your reputation.

Under the heading ‘Recruitment’ the site states:

Our top priority is preventing any associations back to you. Our operatives only know us, and we have a proven track record of maintaining secrecy.

Under ‘Directed Action’ it states:

We demand action of our operatives on the ground and provide them in-person support. Create the scenes that will sway public opinion and perception without any guesswork.

Under ‘Deniability’ it states:

By taking every precaution, keeping our clients secret, and only hiring the best individuals, we can ensure that all actions will appear genuine to media and public observers.

You get the idea. The website’s recruitment application page (at the time of writing) gives the following message:

Due to an overwhelming number of responses we have suspended new applications. Thank you for your understanding.

So business is clearly booming.
Biased Media Reporting:

When it comes to the protests/riots the mainstream media seems determined to legitimise the “white guilt” narrative being pushed by the Black Lives Matter movement and portraying the riots as nothing to do with the group. While Antifa and other professional agitators bear some responsibility for the chaos, the behaviour of many black people – raised on a steady diet of black victimhood and force fed the “white privilege” narrative – has been incredibly violent and racist against white people. In one video which emerged out of protests in Dallas a group of black youths can be seen chasing down and almost killing a white man. Needless to say I never saw this video on the news.

View here: https://t.co/aqQCMgp68d

Another video I never saw on mainstream media:
View here: https://t.co/BSay7Zogp2

Didn’t see this one either:

View here: https://t.co/NT8uw3X5xn

Or this:
View here: https://t.co/424w5bZbC6

In this video from Ireland we see a black guy knifing a white guy while he’s lying injured on the ground:

View here: https://t.co/QiFWNEj7YR

Another video from Ireland showing a savage black on white beating:
There’s many more of these kind of videos but I’m sure you get the idea.

While the above videos were ignored by the media they didn’t have a problem showing this next one which they used to demonise white gun owners (because we can’t have white people being united in defence of their neighbourhoods now can we?). Personally, I think this is a glorious sight to behold:
One serious event which got very little media attention was the killing by black looters of a fellow black man, a former police officer named David Dorn, who was attempting to stop the looting. You would definitely think this one was newsworthy:
It would seem that only FOX News saw fit to cover the Dorn Killing. As The National Pulse reported:

...the establishment media chose to ignore the murder of this black man, presumably because it doesn’t fit the narrative of oppression promoted in order to further divide the nation.

CNN, MSNBC, and other mainstream outlets failed to mention the death of Dorn on their websites, or on their daily or nightly programming. Only Fox’s Tucker Carlson covered the incident:
Greg Gutfeld also covered the Dorn killing for FOX:

https://youtu.be/FI_F-8lfuik

In 2017 a black police officer, Mohamed Noor, shot and killed an innocent white woman in Minniapolis, the same city in which George Floyd was killed. While both incidents amount to police brutality, due to the fact that the Floyd incident involved a white cop and black victim a media and cultural frenzy has been unleashed in which white people are expected to take collective responsibility and literally kneel at the altar of black victimhood and grovel for forgiveness. And all this before the justice system has even had a chance to deal with the officer involved and without any proof of a racial motive being offered. In the video below you can actually see black protesters demanding the release of Mohamed Noor.
In the video below, Vigilante Intelligence covers the George Floyd case as well as media bias when it comes to race related incidents. Towards the end he highlights the scant media coverage of an attack by a black supremacist on an old white man in a nursing home compared to the widespread coverage of a much less serious incident where a white woman called the police on a black man who asked her to put her dog on a lead. In the video he also points out that the use of a knee to restrain suspects is likely part of the training which many US police have received from the Israeli police who have long been training US law enforcement.

https://youtu.be/citk5Y44LaE

The Race Issue:

As a result of the death of George Floyd we have seen black activists attempt to lay collective blame at the feet of all white people and issue demands that they “educate themselves” on their “inherent racism” and “white privilege”. White people would never get away with such stereotyping of an entire ethnic group and there is no reason why white people should blindly accept this narrative. What we haven’t seen in all of this is black activists directing their ire at the establishment media and entertainment industry which, for at least the past three decades, has fed them a copious diet of gangsta thug culture with its promotion of black rap artists as well as tv shows and movies which glamorize criminal behaviour, guns, drugs, gangsterism and hostility towards the police. This cultural debasement inevitably leads to a high crime rate and large amounts of black on black murders which dwarf the incidence of white on black incidents.

Of course, the black activists currently engaged in the shakedown of white people will never direct their anger at the media or the entertainment industry because they need to court them in order to push their anti-white agenda, something which the elite controlled Cultural Marxist media is only too willing to do. Black people also don’t take responsibility for their own role in perpetuating this degenerate form of pop-culture.

In the article, The Systemic Collapse of the US Society Has Begun, The Saker writes:

Then there is what Solzhenitsyn called the “decline of courage” in the West: the vast majority US politicians have basically lost the ability to criticize Blacks, even when it is quite obvious that many of the current problems of the Black population of the US are created by Blacks themselves: I think of the truly vulgar, obscene and overall disgusting “rap culture” with which most Black youth are now “educated” in since early childhood or how many Black youth have been brainwashed into considering gang members and street prostitutes as the measure of what “looking cool” looks like in terms of clothes, language and overall behavior. I believe that it is pretty obvious to any person who lived in the US that Blacks are very often (mostly?) the cause of their own misery: I can tell you that my Jamaican and Sub-Saharan African friends (who live in the USA) have told me many times that a) they think that US Blacks have opportunities which they would never have in Africa or Jamaica and that b) local Blacks often resent Africans and Jamaican Blacks because the latter do so much better in the US society. I can also testify to the fact that I have seen a lot of anti-Latino feelings from US Blacks. As for how Blacks often feel about Asians, all we need to do is remember the LA riots in 1992. Finally, I do believe that many (most?) people in the US know that the strongest and most frequent form of racism in the US will be anti-White, especially from politically engaged Blacks.

He goes on to write:

To those of you who live outside the USA, I would recommend this simple thought experiment: just take 20-30 minutes and watch the footage of BOTH the “peaceful protests” AND “the violent riots” and look carefully not only at what the folks you see in the footage are wearing, but also how they speak, how they act, what they say and how they say it and ask yourself a simple question: would you want to hire any of these guys and pay them a decent salary? I very much doubt that many of you would. Frankly, most of these rioters are unhirable, and “racism” has nothing to do with this.

The fact is that what is sometimes called the “MTV culture” is, in reality, nothing else than a systematic glorification of criminal mayhem. Forget about rap hits like the famous “Fuk Da Police” or “Kill d’White People”, I would argue that 99% of rap is a glorification of all the worst problems of Black communities in the US (drugs, violence, promiscuous sex, objectification of women, alcoholism, glorification of criminal behavior in the streets and in prisons, etc.). Yet most US politicians seem to be paralyzed and feel the need to pretend like they are absolutely charmed by this so-called “Black culture”.
In his article, Nature of the Threat to Whites: Black Gangsta Hip Hop and Rap, Russ Winter writes:

The black community — and, in particular, its youth — largely convey their worldview through hip-hop and rap music. Given that this is their chosen method to communicate, it behooves the white community to examine it. R&B and hip hop make up about 14 percent of record sales in the U.S. However, its reach is even greater given that it is frequently illegally downloaded.

The move to corporate recording studios encouraged rappers “to collapse their recording selves and their actual selves.” The “art form” is to imbue performances with authenticity. Performers boast about “keeping it real.” They rap about gangstas and hustlers, pimps and hoes, guns and violence, they say, only because crime, violence and prison loom so large in the life of disadvantaged black youth.

As such, the white community must carefully examine the spirit and mentality with which rappers convey this lifestyle. If the music was sad, sorrowful and introspective, then empathy is highly appropriate. But it’s not really even “woe is me.” In fact, unfortunately, upon closer examination, much of the gangsta hip-hop/rap music genre actually seems to rejoice and relish in a sick, twisted, sadomasochistic self-destructive world of violence, degeneracy and evil.

He goes on to write:

Unless blacks themselves are prepared to strongly disavow and censure this music within their own communities, then the white community has no choice but to consider those (including the many useful-idiot whites) listening to it and supporting it as being heavily propagandized and influenced into being a hostile element to the life and security of white people. It leaves whites no other choice but to circle their wagons.

There are some blacks who see the downside and negativity going on in their own communities. But instead of owning up, they, too, often blame the music on “whitey.”

In an act of extreme ‘clown worldism’ the music industry, which has been largely responsible for providing black youths with their terrible “gangsta” role models, actually spearheaded something called “Black Out Tuesday” to show solidarity with black people and to raise awareness of their eternal victimhood. The Sun reports:

What is Blackout Tuesday?

The music industry is "turning off the music" and holding a day to reflect and spark change in response to the death of George Floyd and the killings of other black people.

Several top record labels organised Black Out Tuesday on June 2 as violent protests erupted around the world, sparked by Floyd’s death as well as the killings of Ahmaud Arbery and Breonna Taylor.

The article goes on to explain:

“On Tuesday June 2nd, Columbia Records will observe ‘Black Out Tuesday,’” the Sony label - home to Beyoncé, Bob Dylan, Adele and John Legend - said in a statement.

“This is not a day off. Instead, this is a day to reflect and figure out ways to move forward in solidarity.

“We continue to stand with the Black community, our staff, artists, and peers in the music industry.

“Perhaps with the music off, we can truly listen," it added.
Throughout this whole drama we’ve had many black celebrities using their profiles to push the white guilt narrative. Needless to say most of them work in the entertainment industry and are multi-millionaires as a result. These successful and wealthy individuals actually have the gall to tell white working class people that they have privilege. The term ‘clown world’ doesn’t even begin to describe the lack of sanity on display. One particularly aggressive tweet came from black actor Idris Elba who - no doubt tweeting from beside the pool at his mansion - wrote:

>This ain’t a movie/ ain’t calling cut/ we cutting the throat of the old system/so if you ain’t with us/ then you better run. New breed.
The narrative which the black activist crowd want to push also isn’t backed up by the statistics. A piece in the Wall Street Journal by Heather Mac Donald titled, The Myth of Systemic Police Racism, looks at some of the stats on the issue:

In 2019 police officers fatally shot 1,004 people, most of whom were armed or otherwise dangerous. African-Americans were about a quarter of those killed by cops last year (235), a ratio that has remained stable since 2015. That share of black victims is less than what the black crime rate would predict, since police shootings are a function of how often officers encounter armed and violent suspects. In 2018, the latest year for which such data have been published, African-Americans made up 53% of known homicide offenders in the U.S. and commit about 60% of robberies, though they are 13% of the population.

The police fatally shot 9 unarmed blacks and 19 unarmed whites in 2019, according to a Washington Post database, down from 38 and 32, respectively, in 2015. The Post defines “unarmed” broadly to include such cases as a suspect in Newark, N.J., who had a loaded handgun in his car during a police chase. In 2018 there were 7,407 black homicide victims. Assuming a comparable number of victims last year, those nine unarmed black victims of police shootings represent 0.1% of all African-Americans killed in 2019. By contrast, a police officer is 18½ times more likely to be killed by a black male than an unarmed black male is to be killed by a police officer.

On Memorial Day weekend in Chicago alone, 10 African-Americans were killed in drive-by shootings. Such routine violence has continued—a 72-year-old Chicago man shot in the face on May 29 by a gunman who fired about a dozen shots into a residence; two 19-year-old women on the South Side shot to death as they sat in a parked car a few hours earlier; a 16-year-old boy fatally stabbed with his own knife that same day. This past weekend, 80 Chicagoans were shot in drive-by shootings, 21 fatally, the victims overwhelmingly black. Police shootings are not the reason that blacks die of homicide at eight times the rate of whites and Hispanics combined; criminal violence is.

In the video below, Tucker Carlson also looks into the data and asks:

“Is our nation being ripped apart by a total and complete lie - a provable lie - a lie used by cynical media manipulators and unscrupulous politicians who understand that racial strife... race hatred... is their path to power... even if it destroys the country.”:

https://youtu.be/1qwif8PF1El?t=536
In his article, On Racism, Paul Craig Roberts makes some relevant points writing:

If white people are racist, how was Obama twice elected president of the United States? That such questions do not occur to those shouting “white racism” indicates weak minds, the presence of anti-whites out to make mischief, and people who speak on the basis of an unexamined assumption that has been drilled into their heads.

He goes on to write:

So what is police violence against white people? Are white people murdered and brutalized by police because of their skin color? Is this structural violence against white people?

You think police don’t use violence against white people? How uninformed you are! In 2017 police shot to death more than twice as many white people as black people. In 2018 police shot to death almost twice as many white people as black people. In 2019 57% more white people than black people were shot to death. So far in 2020, 35% more white people than black people have been shot to death by police.

He goes on to explain:

A multicultural racially diverse society, which the United States has become as a result of illegal immigration and the change in immigration law in 1965, cannot survive if race hatred is a feature of the society. In the US, white liberals have been teaching black Americans to hate white Americans for decades. Black people have been indoctrinated into believing that every unpleasant feature of their existence is due to white racism. In many white people, this indoctrination has engendered guilt that causes them to excuse and make excuses for black violence. The effect over time is to make blacks more angry and whites less willing to resist violent acts of anger and to blame themselves instead.

He goes on to address the role of Cultural Marxism:
None of those screaming racism are interested in stopping police violence. Police violence against members of the public is a product of police training, not of racism. Those screaming racism don’t want the violence corrected by reforming the way police are trained. They want the violence to continue as it is useful for their agenda of using white racism to create white guilt and black anger. This is the way to revolution. In Marxism, there was only class warfare between workers and capitalist—the proletariat vs. the bourgeoisie—but in Cultural Marxism or Identity Politics there is racial oppression, gender oppression, homosexual oppression, and oppression against the disabled and elderly. All of these oppressed people become alienated from society and potential supporters for revolution.

However, Cultural Marxism could also brew counterrevolution. Some whites might see where this is heading and the realization could create opposition to the attack on white people. Some regard Trump’s election as president as an indication that white Americans realize that they have been abandoned by the Democrat Party. Unless you are a well-to-do white liberal on the east or west coasts, the Democrat Party has written you off. White people, including the working class that formerly was represented by the Democrat Party, have been defined by Hillary Clinton as “the Trump deplorables.” Whites are already second-class citizens, especially if they are straight males, and they are being set up for worse to come. Politicians, except for Trump, are too scared of media attacks to confront the propaganda with the truth.

In his piece, All Races Suffer from Police Violence, Roberts writes:

Americans are so brainwashed that even some of my readers cannot believe that police violence affects more white people than black people. The majority of victims are white; but disproportionately (blacks are a smaller percent of the population) they are black. In turn, this disproportion can be explained by the fact that according to US Department of Justice statistics, blacks commit a disproportion of homocides. Being only 13% of the population, blacks commit 52% of murders. Consequently, police regard confrontations with blacks as being more dangerous to police, and this affects police behavior. https://www.bjs.gov/content/pub/pdf/htus8008.pdf

He goes on to write:
As I have explained, Americans are unaware of the facts for these reasons:

(1) The presstitutes do not report (except locally) police violence against white people, because it does not fit the white racism explanation.

(2) Unlike blacks, white people do not protest. Whites have not been educated to regard violence against themselves as racism or as something specifically to do with being white. Moreover, there is no national reporting or days of national news coverage of police violence used against whites, so no one, white or black, is aware of the extent of police violence against white people. Therefore, white people tend to give the police the benefit of the doubt. White complaints are also restrained by the fear that coming down too hard on police will make the police more hesitant and less effective in law enforcement.

(3) The Identity Politics that dominates our time has no interest in destroying its white racist explanation of US society. Indeed, the strengthening of the racist explanation of America is the purpose of the New York Times 1619 Project.

When it comes to Cultural Marxism and Identity Politics we have already seen in the UK how such politically correct ideologies lead to certain ethnic groups becoming untouchable. The numerous Asian grooming gang scandals attest to this. This is what makes the current UK race protests so ridiculous as the British police are dangerously hyper-sensitive to race issues. America is in danger of allowing their police to go the same way should they blindly accept the incredibly dubious Black Lives Matter narrative. Keeping the streets safe should not take a back-seat to empty meaningless ideologies like “diversity.”
In a recent article on his website, the researcher who goes by the name Vigilant Citizen highlights a video from 2017 by a former Black Lives Matter organizer, Chaziel Sunz, in which he tries to warn his fellow black people that they are being used by powerful people for a polical agenda. Vigilant Citizen writes:

In 2017, Chaziel Sunz posted a video explaining how he discovered that his movement was infiltrated by people who sought to push BLM members towards a specific, extremist ideology. He goes on to explain how BLM and other movements such as Antifa are funded by the elite to serve its political interests.

Those who came up with the names “Black Lives Matter” and “Antifa” are marketing geniuses. Because, of course, black lives matter and nobody can disagree with that. Also, of course, everybody who likes liberty is anti-fascist. But the names are misleading. If BLM was named “Black People Being Duped by the Elite to do its Bidding”, it would be less popular. And if Antifa was actually called “People Being Paid by the Elite to Destroy the Country from Within”, mass media would not be praising it.

He goes on to state:
In 2020, Chaziel Sunz’ explanations are more relevant than ever and need to be heard by many. We’re living in treacherous times where deceit and manipulation are rampant. The current events are being used by the elite to recruit and radicalize well-meaning people in order to place them right on the front lines. In other words: Cannon fodder.

See the Chaziel Sunz video below:

https://youtu.be/C65e1YS1cgA

https://www.bitchute.com/video/wYk4i23EV7Bt/

White Guilt:

During this Black Lives Matter insurgency we have witnessed the horrific sight of white people – particularly white liberals - pandering to black people and grovelling for forgiveness for their “white privilege.” Many have gotten down on one knee to show solidarity with the BLM cause. One video is particularly disturbing and shows a crowd of white people kneeling before a group of black people and praying for forgiveness:

View here: https://youtu.be/fdX6aVzPghs

In a scene that is even worse, a group of white people wash the feet of black
We have also seen much larger mass-gatherings designed to induce guilt and shame such as this creepy cult-like scene in Bethesda:

In his article, #StruggleSessions and the Mythical Inverted Cult of St. Floyd, Thomas Muller compares these scenes of ritual humiliation to the Marxist...
concept of ‘struggle sessions.’ He explains:

The Crime Syndicate behind the cult of St. Floyd have introduced a method taken right out the Mao Communist China era called the “public humiliation struggle session.”

He goes on to explain:

Struggle sessions developed from similar ideas of Marxist criticism and self-criticism in the Soviet Union from the 1920s. Struggle sessions are held, ostensibly, to benefit the target, by eliminating all traces of counterrevolutionary, reactionary thinking. Chinese communists resisted this at first, because struggle sessions conflicted with the Chinese concept of saving face, but struggle sessions became commonplace at Communist Party meetings during the 1930s.

He goes on to state:

The American St. Floyd version of the struggle session is ramping up rapidly. One version are Black Lives Matter trolls pressuring white authoritarian followers to “take a knee” and to “eat shit” by demonstrating their collective shame, guilt and responsibility for the drug cocktail overdose death of St. Floyd.

This is what this reprehensible strategy and pillaring looks like in public settings. Get used to it.

Muller goes on to cite examples such as this one where a bunch of BLM zealots attempt to extract a promise from the Mayor of Minneapolis, Jacob Frey, to defund the local police department. Although he resists in the video it seems the defunding and dismantling of the department will now take place.
In this video a police chief lays flat on his stomach to show his submission to the mob:
We have also seen white celebrities pandering to all this absurdity. One particularly unnecessary case is that of UK comedian (supposedly), Leigh Francis, who used to dress up as caricatures of famous celebrities for his sketch show Bo Selecta. His costumes tended to involve rubber masks deliberately designed to look terrible and not much like the celebrity being impersonated. As some of the celebs he mocked were black, Francis took to Instagram to apologise and put on a public display of guilt and shame. No apology for the white celebrities he made fun of though, I suppose if their feelings were hurt by his portrayal of them that doesn’t really matter. But ultimately he shouldn’t have apologised to anyone as there was clearly no malice – racial or otherwise - involved in his act. It should also be pointed out that Francis’ career was made off the back of Bo Selecta and whatever wealth he now has is due to the profile he achieved from that now “racist” show. Therefore if he feels so strongly that he needs to make reparations perhaps he should think about giving that wealth away to some black activist organisations. Hands up those of you who think he’ll do it? Yeah...
me neither.

See his pathetic attempt to jump on the race relations bandwagon below:

https://youtu.be/-KYgYTxJwjc

This is the reasonable and sane response to Francis’ apology:

https://youtu.be/ZRUXnr1ytk

Note: UK comedy sketch show Little Britain has now been pulled from streaming services for the same ridiculous reasons, i.e. some of the characters were black (see here).

Another example of white liberal cuckery is the Reddit co-founder, Alexis Ohanian, husband of black tennis player Serena Williams. Ohanian resigned his position on Reddit’s board to make way for a black replacement. The BBC reports:

Reddit co-founder Alexis Ohanian has resigned from the tech firm's board and urged the company to replace him with a black candidate.

On this occasion we have one who actually is dumb enough to give money to the black insurgency. The article continues:

The tech entrepreneur has also pledged to use future gains on his Reddit stock to "serve the black community."

In a series of tweets, he said he was doing it "as a father who needs to be able to answer his black daughter when she asks: 'What did you do?'"

It follows days of US protests against police brutality and racial inequality.

Mr Ohanian, who is married to black tennis champion Serena Williams, said he would be donating $1m (£800,000) to Know Your Rights Camp, a non-profit started by former NFL quarterback Colin Kaepernick.

*I believe resignation can actually be an act of leadership from people in power right now," he said in a video. "To everyone fighting to fix our broken nation: do not stop."

The submissive behaviour of many white people at this current time is simply embarrassing. But talking of stupid white people, let’s move on to the most stupid white people of all.

Antifa:

One of my very first posts on this blog was about Antifa in which I highlighted a SKY News report on the group which – for those who are unfamiliar – you can watch below to get up to speed on the basics.

https://youtu.be/2ijnoGn2Clg

I’ve seen talking heads on TV trying to make out that Antifa it is not an organised group. This seems to be based primarily on the premise that it doesn’t have a group leader. Of course, no one who looks into the group could take this claim seriously. If there was no organisation they wouldn’t all show up at the same locations for riots and protests. The video below by Project Veritas shows that there certainly is organisation and training involved:

https://youtu.be/VLR76_e_koE

A recent article on the blog Snippits and Snappits titled, Antifa’s American Insurgency, explains of the current riots:

We are witnessing glimmers of the full insurrection the far-left has been working toward for decades. The killing of George Floyd in Minneapolis was merely a pre-text for radicals to push their ambitious insurgency. In a matter of hours, after the video of Floyd began circulating the internet, militant antifa cells across the country mobilized to Minnesota to aid Black Lives Matter rioters. Law enforcement and even the state National Guard have struggled to respond in Minnesota.

The piece continues:

The militants uprising across the country want a revolution and they don’t care who or what has to be destroyed in the process. If their comrades die, they are elevated as martyrs in propaganda. Death is celebrated.

At its core, BLM [Black Lives Matter] is a revolutionary Marxist ideology. Alicia Garza, Opal Tometi and Patrisse Cullors, BLM’s founders, are self-identified Marxists who make no secret of their worship of communist terrorists and fugitives, like Assata Shakur. They want the abolishment of law enforcement and capitalism. They want regime change and the end of the rule of law. Antifa has partnered with Black Lives Matter, for now, to help accelerate the breakdown of society.

The US is getting a small preview of the anarchy antifa has been agitating, training and preparing for. Ending law enforcement is a pre-condition for antifa and BLM’s success in monopolizing violence. Those who are harmed first are the weak and vulnerable, the people who cannot protect themselves. Small business owners in Minnesota pleaded for mercy, even putting up signs and messages in support of the rioters, but to no avail.

Antifa also has an army of lawyers ready to offer them assistance in the form of The National Lawyers Guild. The Tennessee Star reports:

Although much lower profile than their enablers within the establishment media and among the more extreme elements of the Democratic Party, the National Lawyers Guild is actually far more important when it comes to keeping Antifa’s program of extreme political violence going.

Made up of thousands of hard-left lawyers spread out in over 150 chapters across the country (not including over 100 student chapters), and funded by giant philanthropists like the Ford Foundation and George Soros, the NLG explicitly and openly coordinates legal action and public relations in support of the Antifa movement. As one chapter states online, the guild’s member-lawyers “understand that legal support is critical in the planning and aftermath of any action,” and “can usually mobilize NLG volunteer lawyers to handle initial court appearances, and . . . often continue to defend activists pro bono.”

The article goes on to state:

NLG’s online literature shows it is stridently committed to Antifa’s program. This apparently includes Antifa’s use of violent terror tactics.

As NLG states, “[t]aking militant and confrontational direct action . . . are a crucial part of the fight against fascism.” The group praises Antifa for “ensur[ing] that the virulent white nationalism sweeping the country is met with militant resistance” and for “directly confront[ing] fascism by shutting down far-right demonstrations.”

Elsewhere, they explicitly state that “while many abhor tactics that involve violence, historical evidence shows that direct action has contributed to shutting down fascist movements before they gain too much power or influence.”

This is highly alarming considering the source. These are trained, legal professionals who are supposed to understand and respect the Bill of Rights, the democratic process, and the rule of law (rather than the rule of force). Many of them, now or in future, could be judges, government lawyers, and lawmakers (Michigan Congresswoman Rashida Tlaib, for example, is an NLG member); people with considerable authority and influence on Americans’ lives.

An article on Summit News reports how the publication Teen Vogue is promoting Antifa. The article states:

As violence, looting and rioting continue to plague almost every American city, virtue signalling leftist publication Teen Vogue told its readers that the ring leaders of the carnage, Antifa, really just wants to create a better world.
Antifa is the fruit of a decades long process of Frankfurt School Cultural Marxist programming. I’ll repeat the quote by Chuck Morse that I used earlier:

The saturating drumbeat of Critical Theory would lead to "Cultural Pessimism" which is when a person grows to loathe the society, which nurtured him and provided him unprecedented levels of success. This describes the attitude of so many leftists living in comfort and safety yet viewing America, the society that made their lifestyle possible, with hatred and contempt. I am amazed by the degree in which both Critical Theory and Cultural Pessimism has been internalized by all of us.

Antifa is the culmination of the process of inducing “Cultural Pessimism.” They are the revolutionary mob ready to act as agents of chaos. They are more than willing to burn down Western society in the name of revolution. In their minds they are heroes in some valiant struggle against fascism when, in reality, they are one of democracy’s biggest threats and are little more than expendable pawns of elite social engineers who are much smarter than they are. They will probably get what’s coming to them once they outlive their usefulness.

Stop calling Antifa antifascists or the real fascists - they are Communists

Conclusion:

The global banking elites, using Illuminized freemasonry, succeeded in overthrowing the established order in Russia by radicalising the working classes until the resulting chaos afforded them the opportunity to completely transform that country and install their tyrannical Bolshevik puppets into power, creating one of the most tyrannical control systems the world has ever seen. The Canadian naval commander, William Guy Carr, in his 1955 book, Pawns In The Game, covers this period of history and after laying out the information writes:

But why go on? It would take volumes to quote all the evidence to prove that the international bankers organized, financed, and directed the Russian Revolution in order to obtain control of a vast territory so that the Illuminati could try out their ideas for totalitarianism. Only by experimenting in an area as vast as the so-called USSRs could they find out mistakes and weaknesses by the process of trial and error. Until they had performed this experiment, which cost millions and millions of human lives, it would have been gross stupidity on their part to try to rule the whole world. [EPUB p159]

We now find ourselves in a time where the Masonic/Banking cabal is gearing up for their global totalitarian rule. As I have tried to point out many times on this blog, that totalitarian system will not be Communism, as such, but Technocracy. The elites don’t seek the total eradication of Capitalism but rather the restructuring of it. The aim is a high-tech big brother surveillance society with a collectivist/socialist control system at the societal level and giant mega-corporations perched on top and in bed with an all controlling global state. The very fact that much of the Cultural Marxist programming of society is fed to us by the world’s largest corporate entities tells us they are a part of the agenda. China has already adopted a similar model of communistic social control with corporate and state power dominating the people. It has been shown by researchers such as Patrick Wood that this situation in China didn’t come about on its own and was guided by the global banking elites. Just as Russia was a testing ground for Communism, so China has been the testing ground for Technocracy. Now the Chinese model is set to be rolled out to the Western World and just as occurred in both Russia and China, chaos and subversion is required to weaken the foundations of society thereby creating the conditions for change.

Communism is not a political ideology but a revolutionary strategy with its end-game being power and authoritarianism. Fomenting chaos and upheaval creates opportunities and many options are open to the manipulators. Crises can be leveraged to increase the power of the state, or they can be used to overthrow it. They can also be used to reform it in ways which are useful to the control agenda. It may even be that the chaos itself is what’s most important to the powers-that-be. In my previous post looking at the meaning behind the rainbow symbolism attached to the coronavirus I explain how it is very likely that the elites want to drag the world down into the gutter for specific esoteric reasons (see here for the details on that).

Who knows exactly how the Masonic/Banker elites intend to play this out but one thing is for certain, only through a constant stream of societal crises and shocks can the West be made malleable and be manoeuvred and manipulated into the New World Order. It isn’t for nothing that the motto of the 33rd degree of Freemasonry is “Ordo Ab Chao” which in English means “Order Out of Chaos”.

In a recent open letter to Donald Trump, a prominent Archbishop of the Catholic Church, Carlo Maria Viganò, called out the social engineering of the masonic forces which operate behind the scenes of our world. Whilst I don’t share the Archbishop’s enthusiasm for Trump – who I see as a part of the masonic chaos dialectic and a figure used to radicalise the likes of Antifa and BLM – it is positive that public figures are beginning to notice, and take seriously, the manipulation and orchestrated nature of events such as coronavirus and the race riots. In his letter he writes of what he views as a ‘Biblical’ struggle between ‘children of darkness’ and the ‘children of light.’ He writes:

In recent months we have been witnessing the formation of two opposing sides that I would call Biblical: the children of light and the children of darkness. The children of light constitute the most conspicuous part of humanity, while the children of darkness represent an absolute minority. And yet the former are the object of a sort of discrimination which places them in a situation of moral inferiority with respect to their adversaries, who often hold strategic positions in government, in politics, in the economy and in the media. In an apparently inexplicable way, the good are held hostage by the wicked and by those who help them either out of self-interest or fearfulness.

He goes on to explain of the children of darkness:

...there are those who serve themselves, who do not hold any moral principles, who want to demolish the family and the nation, exploit workers to make themselves unduly wealthy, foment internal divisions and wars, and accumulate power and money: for them the fallacious illusion of temporal well-being will one day – if they do not repent – yield to the terrible fate that awaits them, far from God, in eternal damnation.

He continues:

In society, Mr. President, these two opposing realities co-exist as eternal enemies, just as God and Satan are eternal enemies. And it appears that the children of darkness – whom we may easily identify with the deep state which you wisely oppose and which is fiercely waging war against you in these days – have decided to show their cards, so to speak, by now revealing their plans. They seem to be so certain of already having everything under control that they have laid aside that circumspection that until now had at least partially concealed their true intentions. The investigations already under way will reveal the true responsibility of those who managed the Covid emergency not only in the area of health care but also in politics, the economy, and the media. We will probably find that in this colossal operation of social engineering there are people who have decided the fate of humanity, arrogating to themselves the right to act against the will of citizens and their representatives in the governments of nations.

We will also discover that the riots in these days were provoked by those who, seeing that the virus is inevitably fading and that the social alarm of the pandemic is waning, necessarily have had to provoke civil disturbances, because they would be followed by repression which, although legitimate, could be condemned as an unjustified aggression against the population. The same thing is also happening in Europe, in perfect synchrony. It is quite clear that the use of street protests is instrumental to the purposes of those who would like to see someone elected in the upcoming presidential elections who embodies the goals of the deep state and who expresses those goals faithfully and with conviction. It will not be surprising if, in a few months, we learn once again that hidden behind these acts of vandalism and violence there are those who hope to profit from the dissolution of the social order so as to build a world without freedom: Solve et Coagula, as the Masonic adage teaches.

Having already brought up the deep state he goes on to write of a “deep church” and suggests that there is some sort of internal struggle within the institution:

Although it may seem disconcerting, the opposing alignments I have described are also found in religious circles. There are faithful Shepherds who care for the flock of Christ, but there are also mercenary infidels who seek to scatter the flock and hand the sheep over to be devoured by ravenous wolves. It is not surprising that these mercenaries are allies of the children of darkness and hate the children of light: just as there is a deep state, there is also a deep church that betrays its duties and forsweares its proper commitments before God. Thus the Invisible Enemy, whom good rulers fight against in public affairs, is also fought against by good shepherds in the ecclesiastical sphere. It is a spiritual battle, which I spoke about in my recent Appeal which was published on May 8.

While many may not view the world in the same religious terms as the Archbishop, or share his faith in Donald Trump, his assertion that humanity is in the crosshairs of the forces of darkness is certainly a correct one and it is encouraging to see men of his standing willing to publicly voice a conspiratorial opinion and call out the elite’s agenda to gaslight the masses into a New World Order, which at one point he even calls out by name:

For this reason, I believe that the attack to which you were subjected after your visit to the National Shrine of Saint John Paul II is part of the orchestrated media narrative which seeks not to fight racism and bring social order, but to aggravate dispositions; not to bring justice, but to legitimize violence and crime; not to serve the truth, but to favor one political faction. And it is disconcerting that there are Bishops – such as those whom I recently denounced – who, by their words, prove that they are aligned on the opposing side. They are subservient to the deep state, to globalism, to aligned thought, to the New World Order which they invoke ever more frequently in the name of a universal brotherhood which has nothing Christian about it, but which evokes the Masonic ideals of those want to dominate the world by driving God out of the courts, out of schools, out of families, and perhaps even out of churches.

He goes on to call out the media stating:

The American people are mature and have now understood how much the mainstream media does not want to spread the truth but seeks to silence and distort it, spreading the lie that is useful for the purposes of their masters. However, it is important that the good – who are the majority – wake up from their sluggishness and do not accept being deceived by a minority of dishonest people with unavowable purposes. It is necessary that the good, the children of light, come together and make their voices heard. What more effective way is there to do this, Mr. President, than by prayer, asking the Lord to protect you, the United States, and all of humanity from this enormous attack of the Enemy? Before the power of prayer, the deceptions of the children of darkness will collapse, their plots will be revealed, their betrayal will be shown, their frightening power will end in nothing, brought to light and exposed for what it is: an infernal deception.

The letter is an encouraging sign that there may be those in positions of influence who are getting sick and tired of the manipulation and have decided not to be silent in the face of evil. Hopefully there will be more like Archbishop Viganò who will choose to speak up publicly and not be cowed by the “conspiracy theorist” slur. Read the full letter here or see the video below:

https://youtu.be/pnd4QWpWJPM

I will finish up by highlighting two interesting podcasts as well as a few videos. In the latest episode of the Powers and Principalities podcast Tim Kelly and Joe Atwill discuss the riots, the Antifa/BLM uprising and social engineering. Atwill views the situation as a psychological operation against the white middle-class designed to send them the message that “while you were in lockdown the world changed.” He views the Antifa/BLM mob as a psychological weapon designed to manipulate the white middle-class into crying out for some form of martial law which the elite controlled political class can capitalise on to further increase the power of the state. Only time will tell if this is the case. Find the mp3 of the podcast below:

Powers & Principalities 154 – Riots, Racism and the Great Reset:

The second podcast is a 2019 episode of Our Interesting Times – again hosted by Tim Kelly – in which he interviews Colin Flaherty, author of the book, Don’t Make The Black Kids Angry: The Hoax of Black Victimization and How We Enable It. In it they discuss the issue of black racism and black crime and the media’s refusal to address it. Find YouTube and mp3 versions below:

Our Interesting Times – Colin Flaherty on Black Crime and White Guilt:
In the video below, Adam Green of Know More News compiles many of the videos recorded during the riots. Needless to say you won’t have seen any of this on the agenda driven nightly news and it is a must-see for anyone interested in this topic. Unfortunately the video is age restricted by YouTube so only those able to sign in will be able to watch. So far the video doesn’t appear to be hosted anywhere else so regretfully I’m unable to provide an alternative option for viewing.

https://youtu.be/athqBSwOzBE

In this video Adam Green continues his coverage of the situation (at the current time this one is not age restricted):

https://youtu.be/ML5rqriyNsM

And in this short video Mark Collett sums up why the whole Black Lives Matter narrative is bogus:

https://youtu.be/hNRYCFJItK0
https://www.bitchute.com/video/hNRYCFJItK0/

Ultimately, the real tragedy of this situation is that large numbers of people all over the world have been prepared to come out onto the streets and defy the Covid-19 lockdown because of a case of police brutality, but they couldn’t be bothered to do the same to protest the removal of their basic rights during the medical martial law slave training psy-op that is the coronavirus scam-demic. It all just goes to show where we are as a species and how messed up people’s priorities are. It also shows what a powerful mind-control weapon Cultural Marxism actually is and how it has the ability to completely fry people’s brains to the point where they no longer understand what’s truly important.

Find this post online at:

https://infohubblogger.wordpress.com/2020/06/08/racial-tension-cultural-marxism-and-the-chaos-agenda

Main site:

https://infohubblogger.wordpress.com